Hi Uzair and Nima,

this is a step-by-step procedure to provide a new user with access to all WIRED data via Dropbox.

1. Provide your Dropbox email address to Frederic.
 1.  This email address must be associated with a Dropbox account.
 2.  If you don't have a Dropbox account, you can create one (free) or login with a Gmail address. In that case, you must provide Frederic with your Gmail email address.
2. Wait for email confirmation that Frederic sent the invite
3. Go to your inbox or Junk folder and look for an invite email from Dropbox

1. Frederic Coulombe shared "RDL" with you Frederic Coulombe (via Dropbox) 11:27 a.m.

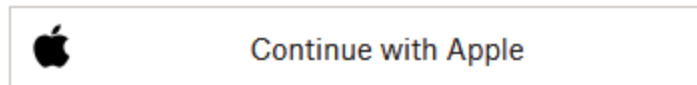

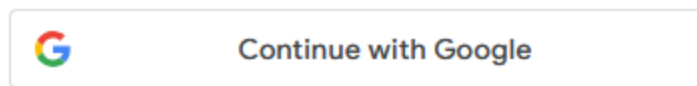

4. Click on Add to Dropbox

- 1.
5. Dropbox will ask to confirm your identity. Login to your personal Dropbox account associated with the email address you provided. (The "I already have an account. Log in." button is missing from the screenshot).

To keep RDL secure, we need to confirm your identity

Last name

Password

By selecting "Agree and sign up" I agree to the Dropbox Terms and Services Agreement. Learn about how we use and protect your data in our Privacy Policy.

Agree and sign up

6. Voila! The WIRED folder has been added to your account.

Note: If you have multiple Gmail addresses, you will have to first log out and log in to the Gmail address associated with WIRED-Dropbox every time you want to access your data. Otherwise, you won't see anything.

If you would prefer to have an easier access, I can also create a 'view only' link that will allow any human being in the world with the link to access your data. This does not require creating a Dropbox account but it provides no privacy to your data. Just let me know your preference as a team.

Thank you,
Best,
